

Research and guidance from LexisNexis

Already an IBA member? Sign in for a better website experience

Home > IBA Annual Conference Miami 2022 > Programme search

> A chameleon in a rabbit's disguise: regulating the provision and use of artificial intelligence for the legal profession – are business structures in sight or in danger?

Session details

IBA Annual Conference Miami 2022

30 Oct - 4 Nov 2022

Session information

A chameleon in a rabbit's disguise: regulating the provision and use of artificial intelligence for the legal profession – are business structures in sight or in danger?

Tuesday 1 November (1615 - 1730) Save to calendar ▼

Committee(s)

Alternative and New Law Business Structures Committee (Lead)
Professional Ethics Committee
Technology Law Committee

Description

How will current legislative approaches and proposals to regulate the provision and use of AI affect the practice of the legal profession? What are the ethical concerns arising from such regulation? Most importantly, would a proposed extraterritorial application of such regulations have impacts on the legal profession that is more international and connected than ever before?

These and many other questions draw on AI's role in rapidly permeating economies and societies, generating productivity gains, improving efficiency, and lowering costs, while at the same time leading to calls that facilitate the adoption of AI systems to promote innovation and growth, and help establish appropriate safeguards to ensure that such systems are beneficial for practitioners and clients, and shall not put in risk the respect for fundamental rights. The operators and practitioners are or will be certainly sectors that AI heavily impacts in terms of structuring business opportunities. The recent legislative developments and initiatives in Europe, North America, and various jurisdictions attest to this influence: should - or could - AI be harnessed so as to prevent its malleability based on the legal culture and rules on how a profession is executed extra-territorially?

Our panel of experts will address these topical questions shaping the AI-realm in the legal profession.

Session / Workshop Chair(s)

Stuart Fuller

KPMG Law, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia; Vice Chair, Alternative and New Law Business Structures Committee

Speakers

Riccardo Cajola

Cajola & Associati, Milan, Italy; Chair, Artificial Intelligence Working Group

Michele DeStefano

---

University of Miami (& Guest Faculty Harvard Law School Exec Ed), Miami, Florida, USA

---

Derya Durlu Gürzumar LL.M.

---

Istanbul Bar Association, Istanbul, Turkey; Co-Chair, Alternative and New Law Business Structures Committee

---

Claudia Seibel

---

Deutscher Anwaltverein, Berlin, Germany; BIC Officer

---

Amrish Tiwari

---

K&S Partners, Gurgaon, Haryana, India; Chair, Life Sciences Subcommittee